

year 2003, BROCKMAN lived in the Western District of Oklahoma” ... In this third request under the bill of particulars, Defendant seeks to have disclosed where pursuant to statutes and regulations, was Defendant specifically required to file a federal income tax return.

4. In Count II, in the second sentence in that Count in the Information, it reads in part, “... during the calendar year 2004, BROCKMAN lived in the Western District of Oklahoma” ... In this fourth request under the bill of particulars, Defendant seeks to have disclosed where pursuant to statutes and regulations, was Defendant specifically required to file a federal income tax return.

5. In Count III, in the second sentence in that Count in the Information, it reads in part, “... during the calendar year 2005, BROCKMAN lived in the Western District of Oklahoma” ... In this fifth request under the bill of particulars, Defendant seeks to have disclosed where pursuant to statutes and regulations, was Defendant specifically required to file a federal income tax return.

6. As to each of the three counts, Defendant also seeks through this Bill of Particulars, and makes the request for the identity of any individual legally authorized to accept as filed a federal income tax return, and where that person was located, and by what statute and/or regulation that person had authority to accept as filed a federal income tax return from Defendant. See Alnutt v. C.I.R., 523 F.3d 406 (4th Cir. 2008) as an example of the difficulties in properly “filing” a return.

Dated June 4, 2010.
